Limited access to Marshall IT systems in effect

As a result of concern about Export Control information, all external access to Marshall Center systems will be blocked. As systems are certified that they do not contain Export Control information, external access, including to other NASA Centers, will be reinstated. Users will be prompted to reset passwords on systems in their first attempt to access them beginning Tuesday. This includes Virtual Private Network and dial-in access services. For more information, call 544-HELP, Option 0.
